

Turning Protest Into Policy

Lessons from Quaker Lobbying in Washington DC

with Arthur Meyer Boyd
Associate Executive Secretary, FCNL

Friday December 2nd

Maui Community College

Ka Lama Building Room 103

7:00 pm--Public Welcome

How to make citizen action more effective will be the topic of a free talk and discussion with Arthur Meyer Boyd , Associate Executive Secretary of the Friends Committee on National Legislation (FCNL).

FCNL is the largest peace lobby in Washington, DC, and the oldest religious, as well as the oldest ecumenical, lobby in the U.S. Founded in 1943 by members of the Religious Society of Friends, FCNL staff and volunteers work with a nationwide network of tens of thousands of people from many different races, religions, and cultures to advocate social and economic justice, peace, and good government. Boyd will bring a short video about the Quaker public interest lobbying organization and the issues it works on, and he will discuss how citizens can best affect U.S. policy, especially in Iraq.

Discussion will follow the talk.
