

Eman Ahmad Khamas to Speak at MCC

Eman Ahmad Khamas is part of a delegation of Iraqi women to the U.S. organized by the CODEPINK Women Say No to War campaign. She is a journalist, translator and activist. Married with 2 daughters, she lives in Baghdad.

Eman is a member of the Women's Will organization which focuses on defining and defending women's rights outside political party interests and opposing incarceration of women as hostages. Eman regularly publishes articles on women's conditions in Iraq under the occupation in a monthly newspaper called Oqol (Minds).

For the past three years she has been documenting crimes committed by US and Iraqi forces. She will be bringing video documentation of these crimes. Eman is also involved in mobilizing emergency relief (medicines, food and clothing) for victims living under the occupation, especially women and children living in refugee camps.

If you want to get first-hand information about the situation in Iraq don't miss this important event.

Sponsored by Hawaii Institute for Human Rights, Maui Peace Action and CODEPINK. For further information contact Joshua Cooper
joshua@hawaii.edu

Wednesday April 5th

Maui Community College

Hale 216 Noon, 1:45 and 5 pm