

OutFoxed:

Rupert Murdoch's War on Journalism

a Robert Greenwald Film

Friday
October 15th
Maui Community College
Ka Lama Building
Room 103
7:00 pm
Free
Public Welcome

This top-selling film takes issue with Fox News Network's slogan "fair and balanced." Interviews with former Fox staffers and leaked Fox memos state the pro-Republican spin that journalists were supposed to give a story on any given day. Former Fox staffers tell of organized attacks on Fox "targets," such as civil rights activist Jesse Jackson. Outfoxed takes what Fox News says and balances it by showing the distortion techniques behind it. Filmmaker Greenwald comments on the media's role in a democracy: "Warp the media and you warp the democratic process."

"Politically, the hardest thing was not going overboard in this film because it's so outrageous it makes you want to jump up and down and scream," Greenwald says. He is also the director and producer of Uncovered: The Truth About the Iraq War, Unprecedented: The 2000 Presidential Election, and Unconstitutional: The War on Our Civil Liberties.