

Orwell Rolls in his Grave

Explores what the media doesn't like to talk about—ITSELF

a Film by Robert Kane Pappas

Has America entered an Orwellian world of doublespeak where outright lies can pass for the truth? Are Americans being sold a bill of goods by a handful of transnational media corporations and political elites whose interests have little in common with the interests of the American people?

From the very size of the media monopolies and how they got that way to who decides what gets on the air and what doesn't, the film moves through a troubling list of questions and news stories that go unanswered and unreported in the media. Are Americans being given the information a democracy needs to survive or have they been electronically lobotomized into loving Big Brother?

Orwell Rolls in his Grave reminds all of us that 1984 is no longer a date in the future.

“... A documentary that skewers the news media and its owners in a way that seriously chills and disturbs, and is the best rabble-rousing piece of its kind I've ever seen.”
